18. [REDACTED] LIAISON Accompanied by [REDACTED], I met with Messrs. Ed Braswell and Clark McFadden, staff of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and briefed them on the proposed action on Monday concerning Mr. Carl Duckett's project, the circumstances with respect to the [REDACTED] case, and the situation regarding the Agency's interest in and development of capability [REDACTED] [REDACTED]. In this latter case, I pointed out that this capability was never exercised to the point of the Agency's

[REDACTED] We also talked at some length about the situation with respect to the current Select Committee inquiries and the possible action that may be anticipated on joint committee legislation especially the problem of retention of some jurisdiction within the Senate Armed Services Committee. Braswell and McFadden will want to discuss this further when they come out to the Agency next week.

McFadden mentioned in passing that he had talked with representatives in DOD about the possibility of including the Agency in the coverage of the proposed DOD legislation on medical malpractice. He said the Pentagon is less than enthusiastic about including the Agency, but he has not ruled this possibility out.

In talking about Braswell's and McFadden's visit to Headquarters next week, McFadden said what they were interested in from an intelligence standpoint was a briefing on the Soviet capability to surveil ships at sea. I passed this information on to [REDACTED] who will be handling that visit.

19. [REDACTED] LIAISON Handcarried to Brian Atwood, Legislative Assistant to Senator Thomas Eagleton, some material prepared by [REDACTED] by way of follow up to his briefing session with Senator Eagleton and Atwood the other day.

20. [REDACTED] LIAISON In company with [REDACTED] I met with Ralph Preston, House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee staff, and briefed him on the following items: the proposed Agency action on Monday with respect to Mr. Carl Duckett's project, the circumstances of the [REDACTED] case, and a rundown on the Agency's development of a capability [REDACTED]. I pointed out that while there was such a capability there were no instances in which [REDACTED]
